

JUMPING UP

Dog Training Tips

- Jumping up is one of the hardest problems to control and stop due to inconsistencies among people greeting your puppy.
- In order to stop the problem behaviour it is very important every one follows the same rules, consistency is paramount. Ensure all family members abide by the rules you set.
- All greetings inside or outside should be kept low key to prevent your dog from becoming excited
- Your pup must be on a lead or line when meeting people to ensure complete control as you can stand on the line to ensure jumping up is not possible
- The dog should be calmly praised when approaching or meeting a person and four paws are on the ground.
- Do not verbally reprimanded if he jumps up as he may see this as a reward or as a command associated with the behaviour being shown
- At home have another capable person control the dog or shut him away in another room until the visitors are in and settled then introduce your dog on a line or lead.
- The key to success is not allowing the dog the opportunity to jump up. The more he is allowed to jump up the stronger the behaviour will become
- Never reward your dog with attention when it does jump up
- Reward the dog when it sits at any time for attention.

This guide is based on lessons from our training school. Sign up for to one of our classes or workshops for the full benefits of our training school and expert advice.

VIEW CLASSES & WORKSHOPS